Scripps College Site Is Chosen; Will Build Soon

SCRIPPS COLLEGE, Claremont. The site for Scripps College for Women and the building program of the institution has been announced from the office of Dean Ernest J. Jaquin, director of Scripps College.

Scripps College site will be only three blocks north of the present Pomona College campus in Claremont and will comprise the 12-acre lot between Ninth and Twelfth streets and Columbia and Amberst avenues. The first building, a women's dormitory, will be erected soon after Jan. 1, 1927, on a two-acre plot of ground near the north end of the new campus. It will accommodate 50 girls.

Substantial Program
The building program of the institution is unique in Southern California. The dormitories will all be small, with the emphasis placed upon intimate and home-life characteristics. Five or six such dormitories will be built to provide rooms for the 200 students.

Ultimately there will be erected on the campus, within a period of a few years, a chapel; recitation building, including a library; the president's house; faculty housing accommodations; a social hall, with small gymnasium facilities; a large student dining room; an art room; and game and reading rooms.

Athletic facilities of the new women's college will include an outdoor swimming pool, bowling greens, archery fields, and tennis courts, when completed.

All of the campus buildings will be built around courts and connected by Spanish decorative walls.

The interior life of the college will be emphasized by the fact that all of the buildings, when built, will face in instead of out. The entire building plan is designed with emphasis upon culture, simplicity and homelikeness.

ON KNOCKING

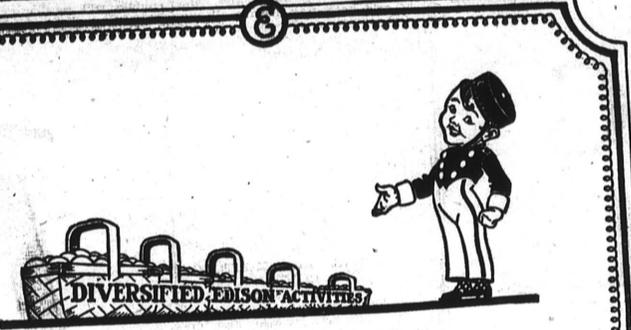

There's one big, great an' growin' industry in this country that don't depend on banks an' crops, or material prosperity o' any sort, an' it never has any labor trouble, an' it don't maintain a lobby in Washin'ton. It's th' business o' knockin'. Knockin' used t' operate under th' name o' backbitin', but it wuz not as brazen an' flagrant an' general, an' wizen scattered as it is t'day. T'day knockin' is one o' our established customs. No conversation is complete without some remarks. Th' most commonplace remark provokes a knock. It's a real relief t' hop in a car an' go 'way out int' th' country an' mingle with smilin' cows an' friendly woodpeckers an' feel that we're not knockin' somethin' or somebody. I believe that ambitious wives with good fer nothin' husbands are th' prize knockers, although th'ir some purty fancy knockin' done by fellers with clerical jobs an' from three t' eight children an' no future are forceful, alert knockers, but I doubt if th'ir any quicker on th' trigger than th' feller who's fallen from two t' three times fer th' same office. But people don't have t' be sour an' discouraged t' be good knockers. Knockin' is popular with all classes. Even at funerals knockers are ambushed behind th' flowers waitin' t' put over a knock while a hymn is bein' sung. Even at th' banquet table, where good cheer an' fellowship are supposed t' abide, th' knocker sets with his glass turned down waitin' fer th' jazz orchestra t' stop so he kin slip a knock across th' celery. It takes a big, showy weddin' t' bring th' knockers out, when all th' pent up knockin' o' weeks is turned loose. When a poor, little pink baby comes t' neighbors drop th'ir work an' flock t' shower th'ir congratulations th' knockers are th' first t' jolly th' mother an' chuck th' tiny stranger under th' chin, an' th' first t' go away an' make fun o' its nose. Gittin' one's picture in th' news-paper never falls t' release a lot o' knockin', but any good luck o' any kind attracts th' knockers t' behind th' scenes. Nonentities escape th' most knockin', but wait until th' non-entity tries t' get out o' th' non-entity class. Even in th' stricken home th' knocker bores up an' snoops about with a solemn face an' remarks t' her nearest neighbor, "He won't be a widower long. I know too much about him." But we've just got t' expect knockin' an' put up with it along with taxes an' ever'thing else. It's jest about got so if folks don't know nothin' but good about somebody they switch th' subject.

On the route from Mecca to Blythe via Desert Center the first eight miles leaving Mecca, which have heretofore been quite rough, have been dragged and are now in very good condition, according to recent information received from the touring department of the National Automobile Club. Between Blythe and Quartzite, Ariz., road work is now in progress, and this stretch will be in good condition within a few days.

Are All Your Eggs in one Basket?

WE hear much today about the visibility of diversifying investments. This is commonly intended to urge the investor to divide his capital among a large number of widely differing types of businesses.

The Southern California Edison Company serves every type of industry that exists in Southern and Central California and is not dependent upon the prosperity of any one type. It therefore offers a self-contained diversification to the investor of a thousand or five thousand dollars, which it would be difficult to obtain otherwise.

Buy a block of Edison Preferred Stock and know that your investment is safeguarded by true diversification.
